ITALIAN TROOPS OFF TO WAR

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

MUSSOLINI, astride a cannon, waves farewell to 12,000 of his redoubtable Blackshirts who are going to invade Ethiopia in the newest drama of conquest. It's a strange land the Italians are going to—formerly known as Abyssinia, and in biblical times called the Land of Cush, lying between the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and the Red Sea.

$100,000 Building Construction for City Anticipated

Sinclair Oil Station Rebuilt—Remodeling for New Shoe Store

$85,000 FROM THE FHA

253 Repair Jobs and 19 New Homes Submitted to Local Office

Building construction involving expenditure of nearly $100,000 is in prospect for Hope within the next few months, it was revealed in a survey Saturday by The Star.

The prospect of approximately $85,000 worth of construction through FHA loans was announced by Thomas Kinser, in charge of the FHA office here.

Construction work estimated at $15,000 is already under way on a half dozen buildings in the downtown section of Hope, money being furnished by owners of the properties.

Construction of a new filling station at Third and Walnut streets and a 10-year lease to the Sinclair Oil company was announced by John Barlow, owner.

The new station will be modern in every respect. The station is expected to be completed by August 15, Mr. Barlow said. Expenditure will be about $4,000.

New Shoe Store
The building formerly occupied by Keith Jewelry store, West Second street, is being repaired for occupancy about August 1.

Exterior and interior work is in progress. A new front to the building will be constructed. The store will be occupied by the Dugan Trading company, shoe store with headquarters at El Dorado.

Work is in progress on the new J. C. Penney company building, formerly the Montgomery-Ward location, on West Second street. A five-year lease with option for an additional period of five years was announced by A. E. Stonequist, local manager of the Penney store.

The new building will be 145 feet in length and 42 feet wide with a 17-foot ceiling. The Penney firm will move into its new location about August 1.

Rumors that a Safeway grocery store would occupy the present Penney building after August were stopped Saturday when the ownership of the building said they had not been approached by any representative of that company.

Construction work on two new liquor stores, one on South Main and the other on East Third, is in progress.

FHA Prospects
The local FHA office announced that 253 prospective modernization and repair jobs had been filed, involving cost of approximately $34,000. Prospects for the erection of 19 new homes through FHAS also are filed in the office with a construction expenditure of $49,500.

Several new construction projects now in progress or recently completed include:

Henry Hotel, Third and Elm streets; Church of the Nazarene, South Elm street; Baptist Sunday School building, South Main street; J. R. Williams residence, South Main; Charles Danna Gibson residence, West Division street; Barton Cash Store, East Second street; C. C. McNeil, residence, North Hervey street.

2 Army Officers and Soil Erosion Men at CCC Camp

Lieuts. Murphy and Mead Take Up Stations Here—Announcement Expected

FIELD CHIEF HERE

Horace Ellen Is to Be Soil Erosion Service Superintendent

The arrival of additional Army and Soil Erosion Service personnel in Hope, and renewed activity at the Alton CCC camp south of the city, were followed Saturday by rumors that the camp which has been in controversy for the last two weeks would be occupied by young white recruits as originally planned.

Confirmation could not be obtained by The Star.

Second Lieutenant Clyde M. Mead, of Pine Bluff, arrived Saturday to be associated with First Lieutenant Leo Murphy, of Junction City, commanding officer who recently succeeded Captain Miller.

Horace Ellen, of Camden, is in Hope as superintendent for Soil Erosion Service, together with H. B. Vinyard as agronomist.

The Soil Erosion Service is to maintain an office at the CCC camp, but whether additional offices would be obtained in the city could not be learned Saturday.

The Army officers, silent as to camp plans, were obviously awaiting further instructions—but their arrival, together with the presence of the Soil Erosion Service men, led to anticipation of an early announcement that the affairs of the camp had been unraveled.

Wave of Modesty Sweeps Beach

When Grandma was a girl, she went down to the beach in frilly skirts that exposed no more than five inches of her black-stockinged limbs ("limbs" was what Grandma called 'em). Well, Grandma was positively immodest in comparison to this 1935 model Parisian beach beauty who wears a skirt trailing almost to the ground. Still, Grandma's costume probably wasn't parted in the middle. It all just goes to show how times change.

Roosevelt Seeking 350-500 Millions From Wealth Tax

"Get the Money" Is Word Passed Down to House Committee

HUGE LOBBY PROBE

Utilities' Hired Advocates Due for Extensive Senate Quizzing

WASHINGTON—(AP)—That taxes that will raise from 350 to 500 million dollars annually were disclosed Saturday as the aim of a leading member of the congressional committee which is putting President Roosevelt's program into bill form.

Representative Samuel B. Hill, Washington Democrat, chairman of the house ways and means tax subcommittee, said:

"If the bill doesn't produce substantial revenue it will not, to my mind, be worth while."

Hill said:

"The word from the administration was to get a substantial amount of money."

Power Lobby Probe
WASHINGTON—(AP)—A move was in progress Saturday to make the most sweeping inquiry of its kind ever conducted on Capitol Hill.

Senator Clark, Missouri Democrat, said he would seek to broaden the prospective inquiry into activities for and against the utilities bill.

Under the Clark plan the workings of all lobbies seeking to affect legislation, from far-flung organizations of national importance to little one-man outfits, would be investigated.

Tax Program Uncertain
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Inability to obtain White House guidance on the rates to be imposed under President Roosevelt's wealth-tax program Friday left house tax bill drafters astoundedly puzzled and bewildered.

Of the men who talked with the president for two hours and a half Thursday, no two concurred on what the tax rates should be. The only apparent concrete determinations were these:

1. That the bill should be pushed for final enactment this session.

2. That it should be limited to levies on gifts, inheritances, corporate income and big individual incomes.

3. That it probably would be necessary to increase rates on incomes below $100,000 a year to get an appreciable amount of revenue.

Opinions Differ
Varying attitudes were expressed by Democratic members of the house ways and means committee on the fact that the president would not agree to any specific rate proposals. One said such guidance would be helpful in that "we can draft a scientific bill without operating within narrow limits."

Another, however, remarked privately he was "amazed" that the president should outline a plan and then have no specific proposals.

House ways and means committee members arranged to hear Secretary Morgenthau at initial hearings Monday.

One of the big problems was how low individual income brackets the new taxes should go. Members denied publishing increased rates on incomes as small as $5,000 a year.

Their general belief appeared to be that sufficient money could be raised by increasing the taxes on incomes of $100,000 and over. But complicating factors were the fact that there was not even an agreement to fix the rates so that a stipulated amount of money might be raised.

Boughten Gives Views
On that idea, Chairman Doughton, Democrat, North Carolina, remarked:

"We do not have to have a certain amount of revenue. Right now the revenue is running ahead of ordinary expenditures. Of course, our debt is increasing because of emergency and relief costs. But what we should do about that is a matter open to discussion."

Even should the committee determine how much money it wants to raise, it was pointed out, it still will have the additional problem of deciding whether to raise most of that from inheritance, gift, corporation income or individual income levies.

"My idea," Doughton said, "is that business would be better off to face reasonable taxes now than to let sentiment pile up for confiscatory rates."

But neither he nor any other committee member was ready to say where reasonable taxes ended and confiscation began.

Cats Go for a Walk on Giant New Bridge
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. (AP)—Four alley cats went out for a walk on a catwalk Friday and instantly regretted it. Bridge inspectors rescued the felines from their precarious perch on chicken wire footing on the catwalk, strung several hundred feet in the air between towers of the San Francisco Bay bridge. Halfway across, the cats yowled for help and clung desperately until the rescuers arrived.

Zach McHenry Gives Up to His Father and Sheriff at Conway

One of Two Fugitive Prison Guards Surrenders—Bloodhounds After Pal Still at Large

CONWAY, Ark.—(AP)—Officers here were advised Saturday that Zach McHenry, 25, one of two escaped convicts who left a trail of terror during their flight across central Arkansas, surrendered Saturday morning to his father and the Faulkner county sheriff in a woods nine miles north of here.

McHenry was returned to custody near Wooster when Sheriff J. R. Summers and the fugitive's father, Sam McHenry, a farmer living near here, found him and persuaded him to give up. The youth made no show of resistance when discovered.

His fellow convict is still sought by a posse and officers from three counties. State rangers and prison guards are using bloodhounds in the chase.

Entire Louisiana Patronage Seized

Huey Long to Control Appointments Down to Village Constable

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—"Complete the conquest" legislation concocted by Senator Huey P. Long to knock the local patronage props out from under his Louisiana opponents and forbid the use of federal relief funds to fight him, was driven halfway to enactment Saturday with anti-Long lawmakers powerless to check it.

Additional Power
BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—Legislation to place the hiring and firing of employees of every city, town and crossroads community under the state Civil Service Commission, composed of Senator Huey P. Long's followers, Friday rang the death knell of local political patronage in Louisiana.

As Long, bossing his latest special session of the state legislature, easily beat down opposition attempts to make his bills to punish political use of federal funds apply to state funds as well, his majority house members approved a proposal placing every non-elective worker in the state under state civil service.

The action would vest the say-so regarding employment of every city, parish or village worker, from well-paid department heads, down to the lowest laborer in the state government. Automatically, it would deprive the city and parish governments of job-awarding authority.

The objective was definitely revealed—although Long denied it—when Long's house floor leader successfully moved amendment of a bill broadening the scope of the civil service act and tightening its provisions.

The bill, amending the act as introduced, extended the Civil Service Commission's authority, originally confined to municipal police and firemen, to "any municipal, parochial, or state officer" to read "and any deputies, assistants, clerks, or any other employees except where such selection is made by the direct vote of the people."

When the legislative session got under way it appeared that Long would be content merely to place all New Orleans city employees under state civil service. As the texts of the senator's bills were revealed, however, it became apparent that he did not intend to so restrict the commission's authority.

Approximately 60 funeral directors from throughout the state attended a conference here to discuss provisions of the sales tax law as it affects their business. A committee composed of C. A. Roth of Little Rock, Adam Robinson of Pine Bluff and Louis Brenner of Hot Springs, was appointed to confer with Commissioner Wiseman regarding regulations governing sales by funeral directors.

Mr. Wiseman conferred with several groups of merchants during the day and spent considerable time answering correspondence relating to various phases of the sales tax question. He said he will take up the question of a special regulation of installment sales early next week.

Petitions prepared by the Little Rock Retail Grocers and Butchers Association at its meeting Tuesday night have been distributed among many stores in Greater Little Rock and the vicinity. The merchants oppose the sales tax, but are protesting especially against the exemptions provided for in the act.

Racing Promoters to Dodge Hearing
L. R. Dog Fanciers Prefer Court Trial to Commission Hearing

LITTLE ROCK—An apparent attempt Friday by proponents of dog racing to forestall a public hearing before the Arkansas Racing Commission here Monday, brought a declaration from Jack Goodwin, president of the Young Business Men's Association, that citizens and organizations, opposing dog racing in Pulaski county, would not be willing to drop the hearing and allow the case to be tested in the courts.

Gus Fulk, attorney for Herman Heiden and associates of the Millwood Amusement corporation, said a neighboring land owner planned to seek an

"Will Never Turn Back" Mussolini's Farewell to Army

Dictator, Astride a Cannon, Bids Goodbye to 12,000 Blackshirts

SAIL FOR ETHIOPIA

Americans Ordered Out of Domain of the Black "King of Kings"

SALERNO, Italy.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini, mounted on a cannon, bade this government "farewell to depart for East Africa Saturday."

"We have decided upon a struggle in which we as a government and a people will not turn back. The decision is irrevocable," he said.

Saturday's speech was addressed to volunteer Blackshirts who are expected to sail shortly for Africa.

Americans Ordered Out
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Africa.—(AP)—The American legation Saturday ordered all Americans to leave Ethiopia.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The United States Friday night sidestepped entanglement in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis by suggesting in effect that the League of Nations, which is arbitrating the dispute, continue its efforts to achieve a peaceful solution.

Secretary Hull, in a note sent to Haile Selassie I, emperor of Ethiopia, added this government was "loath to believe" that either Italy or Ethiopia "would resort to other than pacific means" or "would permit any situation to arise which would be inconsistent with the commitments" of the Kellogg-Briand peace pact.

The note, answering the Ethiopian appeal that the United States invoke the pact to prevent what was called a threatened invasion by Italy, was read by observers here as a effort to avoid entanglement in a dangerous controversy and at the same time reassert American belief in the sanctity of treaties.

Challenged to Duel
LONDON.—(AP)—Because he criticized the warlike attitude of Premier Mussolini while speaking on the Ethiopian question in the House of Commons, Clement Richard Attlee, deputy leader of the opposition has been challenged to a duel.

The challenger is G. A. Fanelli, editor of Il Secolo Fascista, who describes

YOUR HEALTH

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

One of "Daily Dozen" May Produce Strain.

Practicing the "daily dozen" every morning, to keep yourself limber and healthy, may be good for you, especially as you grow older. But do you know that one of the most popular of these forms of exercise also has been found to cause much of the backache among elderly persons?

That's the one requiring you to bend over and touch the floor with your finger tips, while keeping your knees straight. This exercise puts a strain on the back.

A specialist has discovered that when those who have been suffering from backache and at the same time have continued this bending exercise, give up that particular training, they are relieved of the pain in the back.

There are other, just as strange, causes of backache. Failure to wear glasses, for instance, as you grow older and acquire a greater need for them, will cause you to bend closer and closer to your work and so produce painful strains on the body.

When you buy a new automobile, the change in the seating may develop backache. Sometimes the padding in the seat is uneven. If you're not comfortably seated, the continual jolting along the road will produce spinal trouble.

In some instances, you can get relief merely by adjusting the padding in the seat, putting in an extra cushion to raise it, or setting one up to bolster the middle of your back while driving.

Sometimes backache comes from lying for a long time on a bed in which the spring sags. A small pillow placed beneath the hollow of the back and one under the knees will prevent strain on the back muscles. The better cure, of course, is to see that mattress and spring are suitable for the right kind of relaxation.

Use of suitable pillows and supports gives a person with backache a chance to overcome the strain. But the body also must be treated to improve the tone of the muscles.

Constipation must be corrected. Heat may be applied in any of the various forms in which it is available for the body.

Many kinds of drugs may be prescribed for pain in the back. But these drugs serve only to block the sensation of pain temporarily, and will not cure the condition.

A BOOK A DAY

Photos Tell Story of Current History—Here's a Book Which Makes Reporter of Cameraman

The vogue of the picture-book seems to be in full swing. The number of books which seek to tell their story with the camera rather than with the printed word is constantly increasing—and it is a remarkable testimonial to the power of the photograph that all these books are highly effective.

The latest is "Eyes on the World," a bulky array of 574 photographs edited by M. Lincoln Schuster.

This is about what the title implies—a cameraman's glance at current history, at home and abroad. Little attempt is made to argue a case or to present any very definite point of view; the camera's lens, as Mr. Schuster has used it, is pretty largely impartial, and we are given a more or less objective record of recent events.

One strong section of the book deals with political movements abroad. For page, after page, we are shown the marching men of Europe—the German Nazis, the Russian Communists, the Italian Fascists—the dictators who order their movements and those stupendous mass meetings in which public sentiment is moulded and fused.

Another good section tells the story of the depression in America; homeless men, breadlines, public works projects, slum clearances, newspaper headlines, crowds in city streets, and so on.

Altogether, it's an interesting job. The cameraman makes a good reporter, and this compilation is well worth looking at.

Published by Simon and Schuster, it sells for $3.75.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Speaking for Children to Company Is Rude.

"Good morning, Mrs. White. Isn't it hot? Hello there, young man—out shopping with mother?"

"Yes," said Mrs. White. "I can't leave him alone. He runs all over the neighborhood."

"What's your name, dear?" "William," said Mrs. White. "I call him that. He is Bill to his father, of course. It's like the poem you see. Grandma calls him Willy and the boys call him Bill."

Aren't you glad school's over?" Mrs. Black made another overture toward the restless little boy. "Nothing to do now but play and have a good time." "Yes, he's glad, but I'm not. He's into something every second. William stop that. Can't you answer Mrs. Black?"

The ladies talked a few minutes then Mrs. Black said again to William, "How old are you, my dear?"

"He isn't quite eight," promptly vouched his mother. "He is three years younger than Mary. His birthday is next Tuesday. We think he is tall for his age."

Mother Knows the Answer "Then I suppose that means a nice big birthday cake," Mrs. Black smiled at the boy. "Are you going to have a party, William?"

"Indeed no," retorted Mrs. White. "I have enough to do without parties. Don't ever let yourself in for chairmanship of a committee, Mrs. Black. You will never have a minute to yourself. That's what I am doing this morning, seeing the printer about the year-books. William, do stop that hopping. Can't you answer Mrs. Black when she speaks to you? He talks enough other times."

"Well, he is a very nice boy anyway. I wish I had one like him. That reminds me. My brother's son is coming to visit me next week. Will you come over and play with him, William? He won't know anybody at first, and I am afraid he will be homesick. He's just your age. I can drive over and get you. Will you make friends with a new little boy? He is very nice. He has eyes just the color of yours."

Still No Chance to Reply "Certainly, he'll be delighted to go," put in Mrs. White promptly. "Won't you, William? Why, William, I don't believe you've heard a word Mrs. Black was saying. Now stop stamping on those peanut shells and be a gentleman. It's all right, Mrs. Black. He'll be over to play with your nephew. I guess the cat's got his tongue today."

They parted, Mrs. B. murmuring to herself, "Not the cat out his mother. The youngster didn't have a chance to say a word. And he is probably scolding him now because he was restless. I suppose if he had offered a few words on his own account she would have told him not to interrupt. I wonder if she realizes that she was more rude to him than he was to me. In fact he wasn't rude at all. He never had a chance."

Life's Inequalities

He was a good-natured Irishman, and was one of a number of men employed in erecting a new building. The owner of the building said to him one day:

"Pat, didn't you tell me that a brother of yours is a lawyer?"

"Yes, sor," replied Pat.

"And you a hnd carrier! The good things of life are not equally divided, are they?"

"No, sor," said Pat. "Poor fellow! My brother couldn't do this to save his loife!"

Youthful Tragedy

a small brush, is easy to put on. Simply squeeze a bit of the mass on the brush (no water is needed) and apply sparingly. It comes in all shades, including a brilliant blue that gives alluring lights to dark ashes.

The mother-of-pearl liquid polish is a purely novelty preparation and shouldn't be used day in and day out for street or office. In conservative pink and a red shade, too, this makes your finger nails look silvery. Under artificial light, the polish has an intriguing sheen, and in sunlight gives an unusual iridescent effect. Apply it just as you do any liquid polish, using two coats and being careful not to let it spill over on the cuticle.

them for re-election, they are vitally dependent on administration support in their campaigns and could displease the president only at their political peril.

Kick Over Traces O'Connor and Byrnes haven't been quite as co-operative as Harrison and Robinson. Both laid down on Roosevelt when the holding company bill came up—but it took the all-powerful "power trust" to bring them an issue on which they'd do that.

O'Connor, whose first allegiance is to Tammany—whose delegation was all but solid against elimination of holding companies—was asked twice by Roosevelt for a rule which would permit a record vote on the elimination provision. Twice O'Connor promised it.

But, instead, he reported out rules which not only prevented that, but gave nearly all the debate time to the opponents—including Republicans—of the senate bill backed by Roosevelt.

All this probably couldn't have happened had there been pressure from the easy-going, easily influenced Byrnes.

The speaker was working off an old grudge harbored against an administration which never did want him to be speaker and against Chairman Sam Rayburn of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, who the administration had hoped could get the speaker-

Rayburn's committee had knocked out the president's pet elimination section, but Rayburn was leading the fight for it on the floor. "They said they wanted Rayburn because he got more things done," Byrnes had been quoted as saying, off the floor. "But he won't put over anything in this session."

So Byrnes secretly encouraged O'Connor, made statements disparaging the elimination section which he later said were misquoted and let the word get around the cloakrooms that it wasn't important for members to vote for that section.

injunction in Pulaski Chancery Court to halt construction of the proposed racing plant at Millwood amusement park, 10 miles from Little Rock on the Hot Springs highway.

"The race may as well rest in the hands of the chancery court without any serious effort before the Racing Commission by either side," Mr. Falk said. "The meeting scheduled for Monday, as far as the applications are concerned, may as well be abandoned."

Mr. Falk said his clients, who hold a tentative permit will not seek to mandamus the board to carry out the agreement made at West Memphis last Saturday, "because the act provides for the right of appeal from the action of the commission."

He said his clients will be satisfied to have an adverse ruling in order that the case may come before the chancery court immediately for a rehearing.

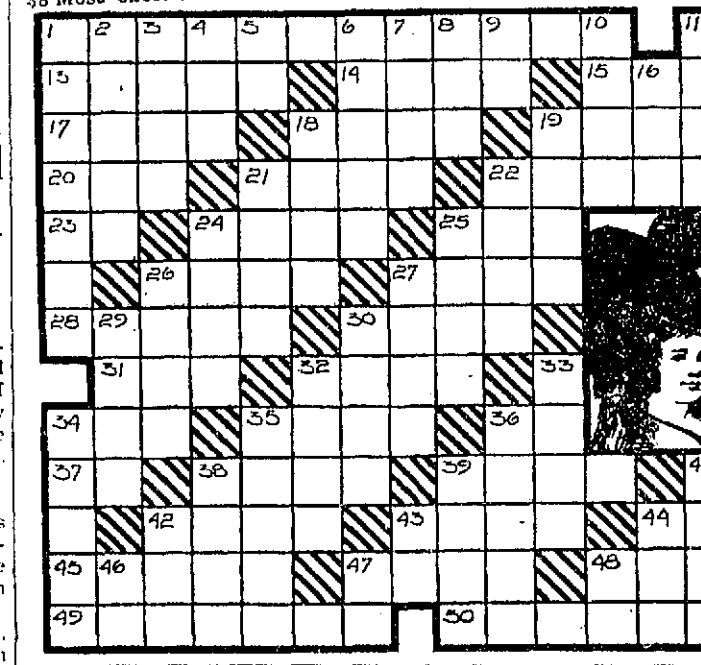

The city council joined opposition to establishment of the track Friday, by unanimously adopting a resolution "disapproving the establishment of a dog racing track in or near the city of Little Rock."

Voluntary Codes Adopted in Frisco

"Fair Play League" Subscribed to by More Than 1,000 Stores

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., (AP)—The star-embellished emblem of the Fair Play League—Frisco's successor to the NRA—greeted shoppers Friday in nearly 1,000 stores.

The league, described as the nation's first organized movement to salvage desirable features of the recovery act, was launched without pomp or ceremony.

Banners bearing the inscription, "good wages, fair practices and short hours," displayed in store windows, alone bore witness to the plan's inauguration.

Only a voluntary compact binds merchants to adhere to the league's pledges. Neither executive order nor police power exist to bring recalcitrants into line. Direct beneficiaries are 36,000 employees of retail stores.

Backed by organized labor, civic groups and retailers generally, the plan admittedly is an experiment, said Col. Robert Ross, president of the league.

"If the theory of good wages, short hours and fair trade practices is sound—and we believe it is—and the public responds in the manner hoped, the league should become firmly entrenched as a basic factor in business methods," he declared.

Heat Wave Hits North and East

Kansas Nation's Hot Spot on 4th With Maximum of 104 Degrees

By the Associated Press It was "the hottest day of the year" in many Eastern points Friday, but thundershowers cooled parts of the Northern Midwest.

Three heat fatalities were reported—one in Detroit and two in Ohio—as the mercury hit its 1935 peak for Boston at 90, Omaha at 95, New York at 87, Toronto at 86 and Chicago at 89.

A sudden thundershower, accompanied by high wind, lowered the mercury 20 degrees within a short time after the year's high was attained in the mid-west metropolises.

Kansas, hot spot of the nation's July 4th holiday, with 104 maximums at Dresden and Garden City, continued to swelter. Topeka steamed in 99-degree heat. Other highs were Wichita 92 and Kansas City 95. It was 93 at St. Louis and 92 at Oklahoma City.

Heavy rains, reaching cloudburst proportions in North Central Wisconsin, ended an incipient heat wave there. There were rains also, with precipitation up to two inches, over Minnesota, North Dakota and in the Western Canadian provinces.

Balance of Trade Turns Against U.S.

Nation Bought More Goods Abroad During May Than It Sold

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Reporting that for the second successive month the United States bought more than it sold during May, Department of Commerce officials said Friday that increases in agricultural imports and decreases in exports of the same class were partly responsible.

Total imports exceeded exports by $1,100,000 during May. In April the excess of imports over exports was $2,300,000. Prior to April, United States exports had exceeded imports for many months.

Officials said that gains in agricultural imports and declines in the same exports, especially of raw cotton, were among the factors involved. It was suggested that a more favorable foreign exchange situation also may have contributed to the comparatively larger purchases by this country.

Mrs. Wilbur Jones won first place in church dress. Mrs. Shirley Stuart second place in house dress and Mrs. O. C. Robins second place in evening dress. Miss Rosie Wolf, our state agent met with us to judge the dresses. We all came home happy because of the fact we were members of the Home Demonstration club.

Eastman Asks Senate to Inquire Into Morgan's Financing

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The senate interstate commerce committee Friday day gave no list of important railroads whose financial structure and banking affiliations it is to investigate.

The list was sent to Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, chairman of the committee by Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation, whom the senate had directed to select the roads.

Eastman called attention to the fact that J. P. Morgan & Co., and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and affiliated financial houses are the leading financial interests having to do with most of the lines selected.

The senate investigation is to touch every phase of the railroad situation including bankruptcies and holding companies. Included in the list are nine railroads now in the hands of courts for reorganization.

Among roads selected are: Western region: St. Louis-San Francisco; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Missouri Pacific; Chicago &
